SCHOOL REPORTS.

SHAKERS.

The summer, fall and winter terms, taught by Miss Jessid Eyans, in the girls' department, while Mr. Nicholas Briggs and Eldress Eliza Stratton had charge of the boys' department.

It is always a pleasure to visit this model school where education is not confined to books, but every element that goes to make a true lady or gentleman is strengthened and developed.

Our teachers would all do well to visit this school once a term, at least.

R. A. F.

UPLANDS.

Summer term, taught by Mrs. Sarah E. Small, who is a hard working teacher.

Fall term, taught by Mrs. Almeda C. Caron. Sickness made it impossible for Mrs. Caron to accomplish the desired results.

Winter term, taught by Mr. Frank L. Brown. This is the first term in the new school house. Mr. Brown entered with a quiet, decisive manner, demanding order, and the most careful use of the building. We were pleased with our first visit. This school is in session when our reports go to press.

R. A. F.

CARTER.

Summer and fall terms taught by Miss Ella D. Johnston, with very good results.

R. A. F.

KEZER SEMINARY.

Here it has been my pleasure to make two visits each term.

In Rev. H. N. and Mrs. Small we found very faithful and efficient teachers, who won the esteem of the entire school. Elder Small's successor, Mr. F. J. Sherman, is a graduate of Proctor Academy and a former student at the Boston University, and comes to the trustees highly recommended. Miss Nellie A. Dow is the assistant teacher. Miss Dow's work needs no comments, as she is one of our own promising young teachers.

We would suggest that every tax-paying citizen of town visit this institution, and judge for themselves the results realized from their appropriations. We trust the town will deem it advisable to increase the appropriation, and make use of every means possible to aid the trustees in their earnest efforts to make it a success. It ought to have more pupils, more friends, more who are interested in its general welfare. Every man, woman and child should be its advertising agent. So beautiful a building for educational advantages, and so well founded, is an ornament and benefit to the town, and should be the pride of every citizen and receive liberal patronage.

CENTER.

This school during the past year has continued under the instruction of Miss Elizabeth F. Houser. Miss Houser's ability as a teacher is well known. Good order, energy and thoroughness are characteristics of her school, and the results attained have been most satisfactory.

BLANCHARD.

Spring term taught by Miss Josephine M. Brown. This was Miss Brown's first experience in teaching, and a lack of order was noticed. Miss B. worked hard for the interest of the school, and her methods of teaching are worthy of the highest praise. With more experience she will make one of our most successful teachers.

Fall term taught by Miss Cora E. Haley, of Contoocook, who came well recommended. Miss Haley entered upon her work with zeal and industry. The school, though in no sense a failure, had there been a more united co-operation upon the part of all parents and pupils, better results would have been accomplished.

Winter term, Miss Mary J. Fay. Miss Fay is an experienced teacher, and has the faculty of gaining the love and good will of her scholars. Teacher and pupils worked together harmoniously and excellent results were attained. The presence of parents and friends at the closing exercises should be mentioned and commended. It is to be sincerely hoped that all in the old Blanchard district will work together, that its standing as one of the first schools in our town may be sustained.

Center and Blanchard reported by

LYMAN A. CONANT.

BOROUGH.

Spring term taught by Stella N. Sargent. This was Miss Sargent's third term in this school. Good order prevailed, good progress was made, and good satisfaction given to all interested.

Fall term, Miss Katie E. Gleason. This was the first term in a new house, and Miss G.'s first attempt at teaching. She worked hard for the advancement of her pupils with the best of results.

W. H. C.

DEPOT.

Spring term, taught by Miss Nellie A. Dow. This is a bright little school, which Miss Dow conducted in her usual pleasant manner, and good results were obtained.

Fall term instructor, Mrs. M. J. French. Mrs. F. was untiring in her efforts for the advancement of her pupils and received the hearty co-operation of all the parents. At its close we found this school in fine condition.

Winter term, Miss Nellie A. True, teacher. Miss True was a quiet yet firm disciplinarian; she taught her pupils to think and rely on themselves for answers to questions. This was a successful term of school.

W. H. C.

EMERY.

Winter term, taught by Miss Etta F. Heath. Miss H. is a lady of good deportment and long experience in teaching. This was a model school: the scholars and teacher showed great interest in their work. More than usual advancement was made, and every one interested spoke highly in its praise.

W. H. C.

REMARKS AND QUERIES.

The object in departing somewhat from the usual method of writing up school reports, suggestions and remarks, is to stimulate more thought and discussion in the management of our public schools. Considering that education is superior to all other earthly good, is not affected by any of the many changes incident to all other earthly possessions, does not decay but increase by use. We cannot justly compass it by any common standard of measurement. Our common schools are the principal instrumentalities for educating the masses, and are the foundation of our republican institutions, furnishing a large majority of our population with the little or much education for their duties as citizens.

Every person should cherish an abiding interest in their welfare, and put forth every endeavor possible for their support and advancement.

Education is, as has been tersely expressed, "a debt due from present to future generations," and the question arises how and to what extent shall we meet this obligation. Are our mixed schools so very inferior to those which are graded? One reason why we obtain such good results from mixed schools is from the very fact that they are mixed. The small boy hears with wonder the recitation of the large boy, and gathers many important points as well as a great deal of stimulus for pushing ahead, while the dull "big boy" is corrected in some imperfect work gone over by hearing the smaller boy recite. Schools are not to be judged in all cases by the amount of work gone over, but by the knowledge actually gained and treasured up.

The position of teacher in our public schools is an exceeding responsible one, and it is to be feared that too many assume it without that interest in, and self-devotion to, their tasks, which leads to success. Teachers should be very careful of their deportment and example set before their pupils, upon whose minds, in their plastic state, they can impress their own pure minds and hearts, or if the reverse be true of the teacher a like impression may be made upon the pupil.

Those teachers who demand and get the highest wages oftentimes prove to be the greatest failures, while others, with a better conscience, a love for their work, a desire to educate, and the future well-being of their pupils ever present before them, prove eminently successful.

The boys and girls of to-day are to be the men and women of the near future; their success in acquiring an education depends largely upon our liberality in affording them an opportunity for development.

The small amount of money which the school district receives by law each year calls for the practice of judicious economy in its expenditure, without any design of insisting upon curtailments which would in any way diminish the usefulness of our schools, and not a dollar should be used to bribe or make friends with any one.

Is there any surer way of depopulating and impoverishing a town than by destroying most of its schools and school houses?

The town has caused three new school houses to be built, and voted to repair two others, one of which is nearly completed, during the past year, all of which shows a magnanimous spirit on the part of its citizens, and is a great credit to the town. While one of our schools has been permanently injured by an unwise and unjust location, others may be benefited by an increase of scholars. The school board thought best to give certificates for constant attendance each term during the past year, and the results have proved satisfactory. Are not six weeks of constant attendance at school, with careful and earnest study, better than ten weeks of irregular attendance and desultory study?

Are not 3 terms each year, of 10 weeks length, of more benefit intellectually and physically to the average scholar than schools of a larger number of weeks? It has been with great pleasure, while visiting most of our schools, during the past year, to find them in a highly progressive condition, while the instances were rare that we found a term that was slightly progressive and in comparatively lawless condition.

I would most respectfully request the parents and citizens of the district to visit our schools and judge for themselves as to their condition before extoling or condemning any one of them.

In closing, I wish to thank my fellow citizens and others for the many courtesies received while I have been your official servant.

WILLIAM H. CARTER,

Chairman for School Board.
